Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-26 and 30-35, drawn to isolated nucleic acid for controlling floral development in orchid, method of producing a transformed orchid cell and transgenic orchid, transformed host cells and plants with the shuttle vector capable of expressing the nucleic acid molecule, and method of use, classified in class 800, subclass 290.
- II. Claims 27-29, drawn to a protein for controlling floral development in orchid, classified in class 536, subclass 23.6.

2. The inventions are distinct from each other because:

Groups I and II are independent and distinct. The DNA molecule of Group I and the protein for controlling floral development in orchid of Group II are distinct because they are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities. The DNA molecule of Group I is made up of nucleotides while the protein for controlling floral development in orchid of Group II is composed of amino acids. Furthermore, the DNA molecule may be used for processes other than the production of the protein or the fragment of the protein such as in nucleic hybridization assays and the protein can be made by another materially different process such as purification from the natural source. The search requirement for protein involves both text and amino acid sequence searches while the search for DNA requires only a DNA sequence search. Therefore, the searches are not coextensive.

Nucleotide sequences encoding different proteins are structurally distinct chemical compounds that are unrelated to one another, as are different proteins are structurally distinct chemical compounds that are unrelated to one another. These sequences are thus deemed to normally constitute independent and distinct inventions within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. 121. Each sequence requires an independent search of the sequence databases. Absent evidence to the contrary, each such nucleotide is presumed to represent an independent and distinct invention, subject to a restriction requirement pursuant to 35 U.S.C. 121 and 37 CFR 1.141 et seq (see MPEP 803.04 and 2434).

Upon election of a Group, Applicant is additionally required to select a single nucleotide sequence and an amino acid sequence for said Group, as appropriate. This requirement is not to be construed as a requirement for an election of species, since each nucleotide and amino acid sequence is not a member of single genus of invention, but constitutes an independent and patentably distinct invention.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, subject matter and search requirement, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
